Memorial Day services to be conducted Monday

BY LIZ HAAS

Memorial Day is a legal holiday that is recognized in the United States as the last Monday in May. It commemorates the dead servicemen of all wars. This year it will be celebrated on May 28.

Many of the businesses and community members in the area observe the holiday by flying the nation's flag outside their offices and homes.

One of the Exchange Club of Hancock County's yearly projects is patriotism. Peter Platz is patriotism chairman.

Committee member, Jim Henrie, said this year they will begin the flag raising on Friday evening and allow flags to remain flying until Monday evening.

The 3'x5' American flags will be distributed throughout the major intersections on Highway 90 from Waveland Avenue to the Bay Bridge. They will also be placed on the first and second blocks on Main Street. A large flag will be placed on Pete Fountain's beachfront property, corner US 90 and the bridge.

Platz said the club hangs approximately 110 flags for the occasion.

Exchange Club patriotism committee member Michael Haas Jr. said, "We solicit contributions to support our project. We ask for 20 dollars a year per flag and the flags are posted approximately six times a year."

Contributions may be sent to P.O. Box 133, Waveland, Mississippi 39565.

Haas added, "It's a community thing. Funds raised are used for the club's main yearly projects."

The Waveland American Legion Post 77 will hold their annual ceremony at 11 a.m. at the Post Home on Coleman Avenue. Dr. Ted Alexander, president of Pearl River Community College, will be speaking.

His speech will be followed by a wreath laying ceremony and a reception which are open to the public.

The Clement R. Bontemps American Legion Post #139 will conduct a memorial service at 10 a.m. Monday morning at the gravesite of Clement R. Bontemps at St. Mary's Cemetery.

During the service, they will present a wreath, which will be placed on the grave. Then they will journey to the Post home to honor the members who have died in the last year. Afterwards, a reception will be held in the Post home.

Members will also place flags on every known veteran's grave in both the Garden of Memory Cemetery and the St. Mary's Cemetery, according to John Wilkerson, chairman of the Memorial Day services and Post Adjutant.

Memorial Day closings

BY LIZ HAAS

Not only is Memorial Day known as a flag hanging event, but many businesses also close their offices for the day in observance.

Bay St. Louis City Hall, Waveland City Hall and the Waveland Tax Collector's Office will be closed on Memorial Day in addition to the Hancock County Courthouse and will resume business at regular office hours Tuesday morning.

All local branches of Hancock Bank, Eastover Bank for Savings, Peoples Federal Savings Bank and Merchants Bank will be closed Memorial Day and will open for business on regular Tuesday hours.

The Waveland and Bay St. Louis branches of the U.S. Postal Services will be closed to the public and reopened on Tuesday morning.

The Bay St. Louis and Waveland garbage services will run their usual pick-up routes on Monday.

The holiday serves as a remembrance of those brave men who risked their lives because of their love for their land and the people of the land.

Supervisors seek bids, appoint Geoffrey

BY ELLIS CUEVAS

The Hancock County Board of Supervisors at a special meeting Thursday authorized the advertising for two new mower/ditchers with tractors.

The special meeting was called after a special request was made last week at a workshop meeting by Samuel A. Cuevas, Maintenance superintendent.

Cuevas had requested the additional new mowers because of mechanical break downs of the equipment and the crews were unable to keep with with grass cutting.

In other business the supervisors appointed Rickey Geoffrey as Deputy Coroner/Medical Examiner Investigator, upon a recommendation by Norma Stiglet, Coroner/Medical Examiner Investigator.

In her letter of recommendation Stiglet stated, "...I have known Mr. Geoffrey for several years and feel that he will be able to carry his position with dignity, compassion and knowledge..."

The supervisors also authorized Stiglet and Geoffrey to attend a Coroner's School in Jackson on May 27 through June 1. The cost of the required school is $400 each.

Miss. Highway Patrol beefs up enforcement Memorial Day weekend

Get ready Mississippi! Every sworn officer with the Mississippi Highway Patrol is working during the three-day Memorial Day holiday observance.

Highway Patrol Chief Col. David R. Huggins said the regular force is being augmented by sworn personnel from the driver services and criminal investigation bureaus, as well as by other administratively assigned officers.

"It's worth it to us to cancel all days off and annual leave days for our sworn personnel so we can maintain safe highways for motorists traveling during the 78-hour holiday period," he said.

"We plan to especially target rest areas to deter unlawful activities."

He said more than 500 officers are working enforcement throughout Mississippi looking for speeders, drivers under the influence of drugs or alcohol and those with expired or suspended driver's license or expired license plates or inspection stickers. Ground units will be assisted by air surveillance troopers in helicopters and fixed-wing aircraft.

"This is the first major holiday since the safety belt law became effective in Mississippi," Huggins said, "and we are reminding motorists to buckle up and live with the law."

The Memorial Day holiday began at 6 p.m. Friday and ends at midnight Monday.

Huggins said during last year's observance, seven people were killed in six crashes. Three of the seven were killed on county roads and four were killed on state or federal highways.

State troopers arrested 142 drivers for driving under the influence (DUI) of drugs or alcohol during the 1989 observance.

"All six of the crashes involved only one vehicle each; the drivers lost control and ran off the road. Two drivers were traveling at excessive speeds and another went to sleep at the wheel," Huggins said.

"We are asking drivers to please obey the posted speed laws, don't drink and drive, make sure the motor vehicle operator and front seat passengers are buckled up, and check for valid driver's license, inspection sticker and license plate. Citations are expensive."

Dupont report out on warning system

BY TRACI BONNEY

Dupont officials have mailed a preliminary report about developing an early warning system to the residents living near the DeLisle chemical plant, according to Gary Ruff, senior supervisor of safety, health and environment.

Ruff said the report takes the form of a set of proposals to neighbors of the plant. The proposals come from a committee made up of plant officials and neighbors of the plant, and address the need for an early warning system in case of a chemical leak like one that occurred April 28, when 4,000 pounds of titanium tetrachloride leaked into the air and formed a dense white cloud that traveled over four houses across from the plant and moved about 1 1/2 miles further northeast before dispersing.

The formation of the committee followed a meeting on May 3 in which residents expressed concern over the leak and asked that the plant consider implementing a system that would warn plant neighbors to either go indoors or evacuate in case of a chemical leak.

"At this point our plans are only proposals, none of which are a hundred percent firm," Ruff said.

Lockheed gets nod for Stennis ASRM contract

NASA officials announced a $44 million contract has been awarded to Lockheed Missiles and Space Co. for the design and construction of facilities to test the Advanced Solid Rocket Motor (ASRM) at the John C. Stennis Space Center.

"This is a very positive step that signifies a commitment by NASA and Congress to the ASRM program and to Mississippi," said Lon Miller, ASRM project office manager at Stennis Space Center. "The residents of the Mississippi Coast area can be excited and proud to be playing this important role in America's space program."

The ASRM, which will be the most powerful solid rocket motor ever built, will improve overall safety, reliability and performance and give the Space Shuttle a 12,000-pound heavier lift capacity than the current solid rocket motor.

The ASRM will be manufactured in northern Mississippi near Iuka at the site of a converted Tennessee Valley Authority nuclear power plant.

Favre sentenced to life in prison

Judge Jerry O. Terry sentenced Van John Favre to life in prison for murder late Thursday.

Favre, 43, of Bay St. Louis, was charged with murder in the shooting of Jerry Wayne Honnicutt, 39, outside Favre's home September 13, 1989, between 10:30 and 11:30 p.m. Honnicutt, who had been staying with Favre and his wife Linda about three months, was shot in the head with a .30-caliber rifle. Favre was convicted by the eight-man, four-woman jury, which chose the verdict of murder over an option of manslaughter after deliberating 4 1/2 hours.

Favre did not testify in his own behalf, but the jury heard Wednesday the taped statements he gave Sheriff's Department investigators. In those

Reflections

On Life

By Father Jerome
LeDoux, SVD

The caterpillar in all of us

"If we want to love some butterflies, we first must care for a few caterpillars."

I don't know who said that, but it certainly expresses much of what our life is about. We are actually surrounded by more caterpillars than butterflies, both literally and figuratively. As a matter of fact, all of us, wittingly or unwittingly, take turns at various times showing ourselves still somewhat in the worm or pupa stage, and therefore not yet beautiful butterflies.

We would like to think, with some condescension, that the grossly hairy, grotesque, downright ugly caterpillars are "out there" in the persons or individuals who merit the label the junkies and sundry, the professional and amateur hoods who ply their parasitic trade at everyone's expense, the derelicts and never-do-wells who hang on our street corners, the hookers and other hustlers who cater to the sleaziest in human nature.

Indeed, these are true caterpillars, but they are merely the most obvious ones. Joining them, perhaps unwillingly, is a host so incredibly large that it spans every nook and cranny of our Planet Earth.

Yes, that means all of us—all five billion plus. While some of us have less patent signs of our wormy condition, we all do have some of the worm in us.

It is easy to imagine a wife looking at her husband and seeing an ugly caterpillar as he snarls instead of showing her even the smallest sign of affection, as he bosses her around in a non-stop effort to show her who does all the thinking and who has all the power, as he eyes the women and perhaps dallies on the side.

On the flip side of the coin, it is not difficult to visualize a husband viewing, not a wife, but a repulsive caterpillar which nags with and without cause, which belittles the man and at times almost emasculates him, which fusses almost for the sake of fussing, and which puts shopping, threads and money ahead of him.

Nor is it hard to picture the legendary mother-in-law as an unappetizing caterpillar which dips its offensive head into everyone's business, which attempts to rule turf which does not belong to it, and which renders itself generally obnoxious.

Thank God, there are many mothers-in-law as well as other in-laws who do not fit the extent of such an ugly description.

Moving right along, we find heavy traces of caterpillar in the recalcitrant child who qualifies as a brat, in the parent who neglects child care or indulges in abuse, in the self-serving church minister who pays mostly lip service to religion, in the business person or salesperson who uses unethical means or strategies to make small money or a killing, and in all of us whenever we thrust our rotten attitudes and selfish ways at others.

We would all do well to emulate the highly effective tactic of Al-Anon, the support group which reaches out to, affirms, informs and helps counsel relatives and friends of alcoholics. They cherish the butterfly symbol, recognizing that they are in fact in the ugly worm stage of their life, and therefore in need of a metamorphosis to be changed into beautiful butterflies.

Step one in the cure of any illness or in the remedy of any poor condition is the recognition and admission of its existence. We are halfway home if we can push ourselves to do this.

Of course, step two is the care we must always take in dealing with the many caterpillars in our lives, beginning with our own situation. We can all be beautiful, stunning butterflies.

CONTROVERSIAL KOOP

When C. Everett Koop was nominated in 1981 for the post of U.S. Surgeon General, most people knew him as a pediatric surgeon with strident anti-abortion views. Few would have predicted the conservative doctor from Philadelphia would take a leadership role in the most critical public health issue of our time.

But then few knew how passionately C. Everett Koop felt about human life. Whether it's smoking, AIDS or alcohol, Koop's well-articulated, number-one priority is to save lives.

Woman's death ruled a suicide

The death of an 18-year-old woman found Wednesday in Hancock County has been ruled a suicide, according to the Hancock County Sheriff's Department.

Sheriff Ronald Peterson said Robin Kulp of Picayune, whose body was found Wednesday evening, was reported missing Saturday by Ruby McDonald, a friend with whom Kulp was staying.

Peterson said when Kulp was found, the windows of her car were rolled up, there was a .22-caliber handgun in her lap and she had been shot in the chest.

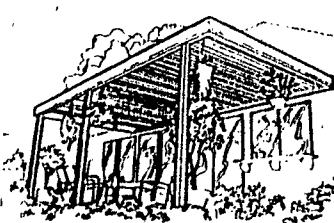

Hancock County Sheriff's Department Investigator Delbert Seay said an autopsy performed in New Orleans has revealed that the wound was "definitely a self-inflicted gunshot wound."

Bay-Waveland school board adopts district's five year plan

BY TRACI BONNEY

The Bay St. Louis-Waveland School Board Thursday approved the district's five-year plan for educational improvement, a plan that includes aspects ranging from educational leadership to a positive school climate.

The plan has five sections and includes goals, objectives and projected implementation dates for each objective. Objectives in the first section range from rewarding longtime employees for their service to ensuring that teachers' and students' supplies and textbooks are adequate to the needs, from finding ways to reduce paper-work to providing means to increase personnel and programs in the district.

The second section pinpoints goals that include enhancing financial operations to improve management; implementing substance awareness programs; decreasing the district's dropout rate; and developing and maintaining a collection of media and equipment for the district's instructional program.

The third section includes goals to provide staff development that relates to classroom instruction and management and to professional growth.

The fourth section deals with school climate and includes goals to promote public support, awareness and understanding of the district's educational mission; provide a level of maintenance and service of buildings, grounds and equipment that is conducive to a positive environment; promote teacher morale; provide recognition for success; provide more effective communication within the school district; improve food services; operations; increase student involvement in activities; and improve bus safety, shorten time spans for afternoon routes and improve discipline on buses.

The fifth section includes goals to improve instructional programs and academic achievement of students in all the district's schools; improve guidance programs; enhance course offerings; refine and add to special education offerings; and enhance vocational education.

Repeated often throughout the plan was a goal to enhance public relations for the schools.

and will be tested at Stennis Space Center, NASA's test site. The motors will be transported to Stennis and Kennedy Space Center via the Tennessee-Tombigbee Waterway and Gulf of Mexico.

The ASRM is essential to the continued success of the Space Shuttle program into the year 2000 and beyond and will support the deployment of Space Station Freedom as well as future Moon and Mars missions, according to NASA.

Design efforts for the test facility at Stennis have been underway since January under an interim contract with Lockheed and will continue through the end of 1990. Earlier this month, NASA awarded a five-year contract to Lockheed for the design, development, test and evaluation of 20 motors.

NASA is waiting response from the U.S. Corps of Engineers and the Mississippi Bureau of Pollution Control regarding wetlands and air emissions permits that must be issued before construction can actually begin.

"Assuming we get the necessary permits later this fall, we anticipate construction to begin late this year or early 1991," Miller said. A decision on the permits is expected to be made in October.

Miller said based on NASA's current schedule, Lockheed's subcontractor, Rust Engineering of Birmingham, Ala., is expected to begin releasing bid packages this summer for design and construction activities at Stennis Space Center.

Construction and activation is expected to be completed in early 1993 with the delivery of the nonflying "Pathfinder" checkout motor in March 1993. Stennis should receive its first test fire motor in mid-1993.

During the qualification test program, Stennis will fire seven motors, two in 1993, three in 1994 and two in 1995.

Both the construction and operations phase of the ASRM program will benefit the local economy surrounding Stennis. Approximately 200 people will be employed at Stennis during construction, and when testing begins in 1993 approximately 200 personnel, primarily engineers and skilled technicians, will be involved. The program is expected to pump about $24 million per year into the local economy, Miller said.

Stennis Space Center is

NASA's primary testing center for rocket engines, including the first and second stages of the Saturn V rocket used during the Apollo lunar landing program, and the Space Shuttle Main Engine test program currently underway.

With the addition of the ASRM test program, Stennis Space Center will be responsible for the testing and certification of the entire Space Shuttle propulsion system.

Favre said he accidentally shot Honnicutt while trying to frighten him off the property, then dragged him into the kitchen of the house when he realized he'd shot Honnicutt.

Favre's wife did take the stand, and she agreed with the statements given by her husband.

Police found a knife in Honnicutt's hand when they investigated the incident. Both Favre and his wife deny putting the knife there after the shooting to make it look as though Favre had shot in self-defense.

He explained that the committee had run several simulations of possible chemical releases on the plant's computer, and had come up with the proposals based on the models generated by the computer.

The committee, which includes residents Danny Bond and Harry Ladner, identified three zones around the plant and is formulating measures to implement in each zone.

The first zone, Ruff said, is the area up to about a mile from the plant's processing area, which is in the center of the plant. The estimated 12 to 16 residences in that area are the ones most likely to be affected by a chemical release that travels off-plant.

Ruff said the measures proposed for the first zone include sirens, flashing lights and signs along the roads around the plant. The signs will explain that when the sirens and lights are in operation, motorists should evacuate the area.

Another measure for the first zone is a monitor to be offered to residents of the zone. These monitors, similar to a radio scanner, will be fixed to the plant's emergency frequency and will allow plant personnel to relay a message quickly to the plant's near neighbors in case of an emergency.

The monitors, which will be given to those residents who want them, have already been ordered, Ruff said.

The lights, sirens and signs have been selected, he added, but cannot be installed until approval is given by Harrison County officials and agencies that may be affected by implementation of the warning system.

Proposals haven't been finalized for the second and third zones at this time. Ruff said residents in those zones—from one to 2 1/2 miles from the plant, and beyond 2 1/2 miles from the plant—are not likely to be affected by a release, but may want to know if one occurs.

He added that plans are being made to designate evacuation rally points so plant personnel or emergency personnel can give medical assistance if needed.

Plant officials also are considering installing a monitor at DeLisle Elementary School if the school wants one.

Ruff said, "The school is in Zone 2, but since there's a high concentration of children there, we think it would be good to work on some form of communication with the school."

He said the plant anticipates no problems in receiving the necessary approvals, and estimated that it will take a couple of months to install and implement the early warning and other alert systems after approval is given.

"QUOTABLE QUOTES"

By Ellis C. Cuevas

Many folks will be traveling our highways and roadways this weekend in celebration of Memorial Day.

Many people will be celebrating the holiday, and I need not mention, there will be folks who will be drinking and driving.

Experts say that when you drink and drive, the odds are stacked against you.

Even a small amount of alcohol can impair your reflexes and cloud your judgement. Although you may be a superior driver, you never know what the other driver is going to do.

When we remember the brave men and women who gave their lives defending our country, let's not forget the thousands who have perished on the battlefields of America's highways each year in alcohol-related accidents.

We've fought hard to win the freedom to choose, so this Memorial Day, and every day, please choose wisely. Don't drink and drive.

Congratulations are in order for the Bay Area Youth Soccer U-10 Boys Team, the Cyclones, who won the Mississippi Youth Soccer Association State Soccer Tournament in Tupelo.

The Bay Area Youth Soccer Girls U-12 Team, the Bay Wave, were runners-up in their division. The local team lost in a shoot-out, just missing a state championship.

Soccer has come a long way in recent years in Hancock County.

In addition to the two teams above being congratulated, I feel the members of the entire league should be commended, along with their coaches and sponsors.

The Bay Area League had very good representation at the state championships and we know they will continue to bring many championships in the years ahead to Hancock County.

Keep up the good play, boys and girls.

IN CONGRESS

By Rep. Gene Taylor

Taxpayers should not subsidize obscenity

Lately, a lot of attention has been given to the National Endowment of the Arts funding of some programs that could be described as obscenity disguised as art.

A program that sent $450,000 in grants to Mississippi artists last year is now in jeopardy because of the poor judgement of a handful of individuals.

The recent furor over the NEA funding of 20 to 25 "bad grants" out of $5,000 was probably fueled by an even more disturbing fact. A look at movies, television programs or the lyrics of pop music shows that obscenity is invading almost every form of our culture.

In a recent cover story entitled "America's Foul-Mouthed Pop Culture," Time Magazine suggests that the '90s are destined to be "the Filth Decade."

Heavy metal music groups are encouraging teenagers to commit suicide. Other groups encourage illicit sex and the use of drugs. Four letter words are common in movies. In the case of one so-called "bad" NEA grant, the use of urine was described as art.

It's time for some Americans to clean up their act.

No reasonable person would suggest that we burn books, ban rock music or stop funding for the NEA entirely. Some art, literature and entertainment will always be controversial.

That controversy is understandable in an extremely diverse society. What one group calls provocative, another will find obscene. But art, music or film with no other message than profanity or obscenity should not be tolerated in our society.

It's unfortunate that a few entertainers are spoiling the show for everyone. But if government is going to get involved in funding art, it should set the right standards through which to fund it.

I do not believe that the taxpayers money should be used to fund pornography. Likewise, disc jockeys, theatre owners, entertainment firms and private individuals should act more responsibly and make better marketing decisions or government becomes tempted to make them for them.

Through art and entertainment, we transmit everything that is good and bad about the world. Like Time says, these days some artist and entertainers seem to be amplifying, if not encouraging, bad behavior. Let's turn the volume down give more attention to the higher values to which men aspire.

MEMORIAL DAY 1990

FROM THE CAPITOL

By Governor Ray Mabus

Remembrance of those who protect us necessary

This week, America honors the men and women who protect our nation, whether through their unerring resolve in times of conflict or selfless dedication while the nation is at peace.

Our veterans are an American treasure who deserve fond respect for the commitment to strength they provide.

As we celebrate our veterans, we can also rejoice because the world over the past year has moved closer and closer toward an era of peace and freedom. While remembering our patriotic past, let's also recognize America for the leadership it supplies the rest of the world.

Our system of democracy has proved once again that it is not only the best, but it's also a handbook for liberty that other nations are beginning to follow. As a veteran, I am frequently reminded of just how precious our democratic society is.

We are safe, we are secure, and we are free thanks to the strength of our democracy and our armed services.

Our piecemeal obligation to the military is to make the fiber of this nation as strong as we possibly can.

Mississippians are doing that in many ways—but in no way more important than improving education.

We are building strong minds in Mississippi. We are also instilling strong values.

These are the things we hold dear as we recognize our veterans this week.

As we rejoice democracy and remember those who have served their country, let us also be proud of the fact that we are investing in that most precious ingredient of a free society: education. It is by far the most important legacy we can leave our children.

On June 18, the Mississippi Legislature will return to Jackson to help realize this charge. By funding Mississippi's BEST, we will be arming our children with the strongest weapons that we can furnish.

The disputes of the future will not be fought on the muddy battlefields of the past. Tomorrow's disagreements will be waged with wit and perception in the business board rooms of the world.

We can ill afford to send our children into any arena without the tools of knowledge they will require to survive.

We must be as determined as our veterans to making sure that we create future generations of knowledgeable, well-educated and worldly-wise students.

By doing that, we ensure that America will remain a leader in the era of peace and an inspiration to a world seeking to become democratic players in the 21st century.

American freedom costs were very high for some Veterans organizations will be celebrating Memorial Day with special services across America in remembrance of those Americans who gave their lives for our freedom.

In addition, there are those men and women who have served our country during the time of conflicts and have since died. These too need to be remembered.

Across the world today there are men and women in uniform enforcing our freedoms, and these military men need also to be recognized and appreciated.

The price of freedom did not come cheap, especially when we think of those who were killed, injured, captured, taken away from family, especially during the great wars of this century.

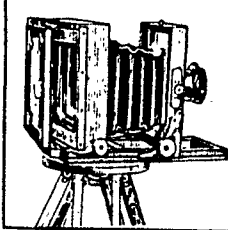

We, as Americans, need to take a few minutes of our time on Monday, the day on which Memorial Day is celebrated, to remember all military personnel who gave so much for this country.

The Bay St. Louis and Waveland American Legion Posts both have special services on Monday to celebrate Memorial Day.

American Legion Post No. 139, Bay St. Louis, will begin Memorial Day services at the grave site of Clement R. Bontemps, Cedar Rest Cemetery, Necaise Avenue, at 10 a.m.

The Bourgeois-Stieffel-Ray American Legion Post, No. 77, Waveland, will begin Memorial Day services at 11 a.m. at the post home on Coleman Avenue.

The public is invited to these special Memorial Day services. Won't you take time to remember?

—Do you love your town? You have any concern for its future? Would you like to see it grow and extend its trade and influence? If you do, then ask yourself these questions: Do I help support and maintain its institutions? Do I encourage every movement looking to the up-building of the town? Do I speak good for the town and the people at every opportunity? Do I lend assistance to its industries? Do I patronize them? Do I fully understand the duties developing upon me as a citizen? If you cannot answer these questions in the affirmative, then you are not only a stumbling block, but a detriment to any community.

Hancock Conservation office plans field day

Mississippi has more than 129,000 farm ponds totaling 224,000 acres and more than 111,000 acres of small lakes.

Because of poor planning and improper construction and management, many of these lakes and ponds are relatively unproductive.

The Hancock County Soil and Water Conservation District will sponsor a Pond Field Day

May 31 at Cassis Farm on Kiln-DeLisle Road.

The field day will be open to the public from 9 to 11 a.m. Topics will include site selection, design, construction, stocking and management.

For more information contact the Soil Conservation Service office in Kiln or phone 255-3225.

SHOPPING UP A STORM

By Katie McGuire Caire

I've just come home from a shopping trip to our area supermarkets, stocking up for the long Memorial Day weekend as well as for the remainder of the week; for here on our hospitable coast these warm days, one never is sure just how many or how few diners will answer the dinner bell, or the breakfast or lunch summons, either, for that matter.

And who wants to be caught short of tasty and hospitable meals now when the markets are brimming with fresh fruits and vegetables, and with specials on chicken and ribs and beef roasts all around us?

That perennial favorite, and usually perennially good-to-the-budget chicken is in good supply at the markets, with good prices on breast quarters as well as leg quarters, and whole fryers, also. Vary your marinades to vary the taste of the chicken, from white wine and olive oil on one occasion, to lemon juice and honey and olive oil on another, and so on. Let the chicken marinate while you fire up the grill and get ready!

Or give it that tang of Old Mexico with a salsa-style basting sauce, homemade or from a bottle of salsa from the market. And, if you're not firing up the grill, you might want to try this easy chicken atop the stove, although it's just as delicious on the grill or barbecue pit.

Have you tried the flavor varieties of canned stewed tomatoes or sauces on the shelves these days? They'll quickly transform ordinary stewed tomatoes into a different taste treat, as in this recipe for:

SOUTH OF THE BORDER CHICKEN
2 1/2 lbs. chicken pieces, skinned (breasts, thighs, legs as you choose)

1 Tbsp. oil
1/2 tsp. cumin
1 clove garlic, crushed
1 can (8 oz.) tomato sauce
1 can (14 1/2 oz.) Mexican Style Stewed Tomatoes
1 can (4 oz.) diced green chiles
1 zucchini, sliced

Brown the chicken pieces in the oil in a large skillet, for 10 minutes, or a bit longer as needed. Salt and pepper to taste. Stir the cumin and garlic into the tomato sauce, and pour over the chicken; then add the remaining ingredients.

Cover and simmer for ten minutes, then uncover and raise the heat, cooking for ten minutes more, or until chicken is done. Serve with rice. (Four to six servings).

You may, of course, use any other tomato sauce of your choice, and add Mexican seasonings to taste. This takes but a few minutes of your time to assemble, then all but cooks itself. You can also use leftover chicken pieces or chunks in this way, so keep the essentials on the shelf.

And, everyone knows that good old-fashioned Southern Fried Chicken is an essential at picnic time, although few Southerners, or any others for that matter, agree upon just how to cook it and what to add or to subtract from batter or seasonings!

And the good "go-withs" as our family cook used to call the vegetables and "side dishes," are found in harvest-fresh profusion all around the stores. That sweet yellow corn, asking just a quick cooking, either in boiling water atop the stove, or roasted in its husks on the grill, is just about a "must," don't you think?

And, if there should be corn left over that should pose no problem; use it up in tasty dishes such as fried corn, or corn fritters or pancakes, or in succotash or corn and tomatoes, or a corn and tomato and egg scramble for a late breakfast, along with grits and hot biscuits, and so on.

And, of course, for me, at least, there must be an overflowing salad bowl. With several varieties of lettuce offered at the stores, along with red, ripe tomatoes and those huge bell (green) peppers, onions and green onions and celery and cucumbers and what have you, there's no problem in assembling delicious salads.

And, if as often happens, there's salad left over, "not to worry"—it's easily recycled, perhaps as salad again. Or if it's too limp to recycle, revive it with a bit of tepid water and serve it as an Oriental-style stir-faute. In a non-stick skillet, stir it with a little soy sauce or tomato or fruit juice.

You might want to add diced chicken (leftover) for a speedy one-pan dinner or supper. Or you can mince the vegetables in the blender or food processor, and add them to soups or stews or meatloaf.

Even "dressed" salads can be recycled: Combine the unserved salad in the blender with tomato juice to make instant Gazpacho, a cold Spanish style "salad soup" or "soup salad" whichever you choose to call it.

RERUN GAZPACHO
Leftover tossed salad, chilled (with an oil and vinegar dressing)

Spicy tomato or vegetable juice.

Of course, refrigerate dressed salad promptly. Then, for each serving, combine one cup salad and one cup juice in blender, cover and process smooth. Serve in chilled bowls, with a few ice cubes if desired. (I often skip this step, just chop vegetables a bit more finely, as I like some "crunch" to gazpacho.)

For "undressed" leftover salad, add a tablespoon of Italian-style salad dressing to the blender along with chopped vegetables and tomato juice. In other words, "waste not, want not," cookery!

And, for dessert—what else but fresh strawberries—or a juicy watermelon!

TRYING TIMES

Public television's comedy anthology series, "Trying Times," returns to the Mississippi Educational Television Network beginning Wednesday, June 6 at 7:30 p.m.

The first encore presentation, "A Family Tree," features Rosanna Arquette in an angst-filled tale by Mississippi Pulitzer Prize-winning author Beth Henley.

"A Family Tree" finds a young woman (Arquette) trying to survive her first meeting with her future-in-law, a situation wrought with tension. Shortly after formal introductions are made, Kara finds a house full of troubled future relatives, including a just-fired father-in-law, an eccentric mother-in-law and a very strange soon-to-be brother-in-law.

The cast includes Hope Lange, John Stockwell, and David Byrne in his first dramatic television role.

Trinity Nursery School Children's Art Show

"Can you tell me how to get to Sesame Street?" Sure—go to the Pass Christian Public Library, where the Trinity Nursery School's annual Children's Art Show is being exhibited through the end of the month. The show's theme this year is "Sesame Street," and the artwork displayed shows much creativity in both the materials used and the interpretation of the theme. Below left are some of the creations on display; while at right, Grover stands ready to greet visitors at the guest register. Post-adoption support group to organize Catholic Social Services, as an outgrowth of its years of work in adoption, will begin a post-adoption support group, "Birthparents Forever," for birthmothers.

The goals are to help participants understand the grief process, develop a sense of acceptance and share their experiences with others.

The group will meet weekly for six weeks beginning Thursday, June 14 from 6-7 p.m. at Catholic Social Services in Biloxi.

Pre-registration by June 8 is requested. Contact Doris Knott or Brenda Stiles at 374-8316 or 374-8391 for further information.

Dive into a good book in library's summer program

"Summer Splash" is the theme for this year's summer reading program, sponsored by the Hancock County Public Library System, according to Prima Wusnack, library system director.

Registration for the program, which is open to children grades 1-8, will begin Tuesday, May 29 and will run through June 9. The program will held at the three branches of the system, the Kiln Library on Tuesdays at 1:30 p.m., the City-County Public Library on Wednesdays at 10 a.m. and the Waveland Library on Thursdays at 10:30 a.m. It will last through the week of July 10.

Activities scheduled include a balloon release on opening day, a visit by Ronald McDonald, an Olympic games day and several contemporary films for children.

In order to register, children must come to the branch they intend to visit and complete the required forms. All participants must set a reading goal of at least five to six books, but a personal goal of more than that is accepted.

Registration will continue through the first week of the program, but no registration will be held during the scheduled activities, so registrants are urged to come early or stay after the program to register.

All activities are designed for children in grades 1-8.

Participants will receive certificates upon completion of meeting their reading goals.

Further information on the program may be obtained by contacting Sandra Ladner, Kiln Library, 255-1724, Karen Peoples, Waveland Library, 467-9240, or Cathy Kanady, City-County Library, 467-5282.

Friendship Oak DAR plans Memorial Day event

In observation of Memorial Day, a committee selected by the Friendship Oak Chapter NS DAR will honor the memory of several persons whose graves will be visited and dedicated both in the National Federal Cemetery in Biloxi and the Allen Memorial Cemetery of Long Beach, according to Mrs. Philip Davenport of Bay St. Louis, who chairs the committee.

Mrs. Davenport said graves will be decorated honoring those who have died in battle. "Memorial Day is a legal public holiday," Mrs. Davenport said.

The memorial services date back from Civil War days. The first documented observation was at Waterloo, N.Y. on May 5,

Originally Memorial Day honored men who had died during the Civil War. It now includes those who served in the Spanish American War, the World Wars I and II, the Korean War and Vietnam. It is a legal holiday in most states.

Flowers and flags are placed on the graves. It is not recorded when first this tradition was observed.

Taking part in the ceremony will be Mrs. Elizabeth Graham and Mrs. Nunez (Joe) Pilet of Bay St. Louis and Mrs. Frances Wilson of Biloxi.

Bay St. Louis Beachfront Festival offers activities for people of all ages

BY TRACI BONNEY

There is plenty in store for those attending the 1990 Beachfront and Children's Art festivals.

Booths at the Beachfront Festival range from antiques to arts and crafts to informational displays and more, while an entire separate world, just for children, will come into being for a day at the Children's Art Festival.

The musical entertainers for the Beachfront Festival will be performing on two stages. On Stage 1 at Beach Blvd and Court Street the schedule is:

—12:15 p.m., Keith Hoda;
—2:30 p.m., Pat Murphy;
—4 p.m., Change To Eden;
—6:30 p.m., Huey & Co.

The schedule for Stage 2 south of DeMontluzin is:

—12:30-2:30 p.m., Leader;
—2:30-4 p.m., St. Rose de Lima Choir;
—4:30-6:30 p.m., Speed-o and The Rocket 88's.

The Children's Art Festival, open to all children and focused on the three- to 12-year age group, will have as its special guest Michelangelo the Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtle, courtesy of Winn Dixie.

The festival will include an information booth; marble painting booth; butterfly painting booth; t-shirt or paper printing booth; face painting; a hand-print mural; fish printing booth; thumb prints booth; collage booth; clay booth and finger painting booth.

Other activities and features will include Mobile Bubbles; Walking Thru Kids' Area; a senior citizen art exhibit; fire truck, Andrew Lizana, fire chief; Lydia's Audubon Shop; Forestry Service, Mark Jamieson, county forester.

Several stage activities are planned, including:

—12:45-1 p.m., story teller Barbara Carter;
—1:15 p.m., story teller Vera Mestayer;
—1:15-1:30 p.m., Yvonne Williams—children's play and create a story;
—1:30-1:45 p.m., story teller Peggy Dutton;
—1:45-2 p.m., story teller Mary Kay Dean;
—2-3 p.m., professional musician/singer Washboard Leo;
—3:30-3:45 p.m., professional dancer Leif Anderson;
—3:45-4 p.m., McGruff Anti-Drug/Crime program;

—4:45 p.m., story tellers Kathy Edwards and Mary Kay Jones;
—4:15-5 p.m., professional musician/singer Cheri Statler;
—5 p.m., singer Amy Hargrove.

A wishing well also will be set up, with proceeds to be donated to the cost of the art supplies. In order for children to participate at the t-shirt booth, parents should bring a white t-shirt to the festival. A limited supply of t-shirts will be available for parents to purchase at cost, or the children may print on paper.

Bike racks will be stationed at the gates to the festival so that youngsters and others may park their bikes and lock them for safekeeping. Uniformed police officers will also be on guard at the gates.

Profusion of daylilies abounds across state

By Dr. Milo Burnham
Horticulturist
Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service

Daylilies are more than likely the most popular flowering garden perennials grown in Mississippi. The bloom season has already begun and will continue until fall for some of the repeat or recurrent bloomers. The peak bloom months, though, are May, June and July.

Enthusiastic professional and amateur breeders have literally exploded the number of named daylilies (often referred to by the botanical name Hemerocallis) into the thousands in the past 40 years.

There are enough daylilies grown in the United States to make you think that plant originated in North America, but it didn't.

The original plants from which all these varieties were developed are native to Eurasia (the Ukraine, Japan, Nepal and Siberia).

Daylilies are so popular that there are books written on them such as "Daylilies" by A. B. Stout; "Hemerocallis, the Daylily" by R. W. Munson, and "Daylily Encyclopedia" by Steve Webber. Enthusiasts, if they want, can even join the American Hemerocallis Society.

As part of the paid membership, they will receive a subscription to the "Daylily Journal." You may be surprised to learn that Elly Lanius, executive secretary of the American Hemerocallis Society resides in Jackson at 1454 Rebel Drive. If you're interested in the society, write Elly. The zip code for Jackson is 39211.

Daylilies have come a long way since my first encounter with the single and double orange lilies that still bloom along the drive back to New Jersey.

Colors now range from white to the deepest red, orange, to orange and the deepest mahogany. There are high lavender, rose, bright red, yellow and shrimp to the lightest of pink. Many of the varieties have color in the center of the blooms that contrasts with the outer color.

Plant and flower size ranges from miniature with flowers less than 3 inches in diameter and plant height as low as 12 inches to varieties with flower stems (scapes) almost 4 feet tall and 6-inch flowers.

Daylilies are sun loving plants, and grow and flower best when planted in full sun in a well-drained fertile soil. They have few pest problems but may occasionally be troubled by aphids, thrips or spider mites.

Daylilies can be planted almost anytime during the growing season and are available in containers from some nurseries. The biggest selections of plants are available from mail-order nurseries that ship bare root plants throughout the growing season.

When properly grown, most plants flower the year after planting and rapidly form large flowering clumps. The miniature or dwarf varieties are easily adapted to container growing. Select repeat or recurrent blooming varieties for containers so you have more than leaves for most of the summer.

When buying daylilies do some comparison shopping. Stella De Oro, a highly awarded and popular daylily introduced in 1974, is a miniature variety with golden yellow, fragrant flowers borne on 12-inch plants that bloom from spring to late summer.

This is the only daylily I currently own and it grows in a large pot on my deck. four 1990 mail-order catalogs offered bare root plants of Stella De Oro at prices ranging from $4.95 to $15.

Choosing daylily varieties to plant can be both fun and a chore since there are so many to choose from. When selecting varieties, consider color, season of bloom, height and price. The newer the variety, the higher the price is likely to be.

Try to avoid the hodgepodge effect of random colors and heights in the garden. Plant the miniature varieties to the front and the tall varieties to the back of beds.

For a long border, consider a rainbow effect by planting varieties of similar colors together and shading from light to dark such as white, pink, yellow, orange, red and finally maroon or mahogany.

Once bitten, you are likely to become smitten and maybe even try to hand at a little amateur breeding.

Local Cancer Society sponsors etiquette course for girls 10-13

BY JANET MCQUEEN

Young ladies in the area are invited to fine-tune their manners in a four-week course sponsored by the Hancock County chapter of the American Cancer Society.

Board members Jo Anne Lagasse and Janet McQueen are co-chairmen of the project, "Daffodil Girls", which will be offered to ages 10-13. The daffodil is the American Cancer Society's flower of hope.

The crew room of Coast Electric Power Association will be the setting for the classes on June 8, 15, 22 and 29 from 10 until 11:15 a.m.

Topics to be covered will include introductions, telephone etiquette, table setting, table manners, correspondence, poise, make-up and special occasions.

Several members of the business community have agreed to share their expertise in the above areas, including:

—Tim Ryan, representing South Central Bell, will discuss good telephone habits;

—Jane Anne Fahey of The Princess Shoppe, along with members of the store's Teen Board, will host a segment on poise and accessorizing clothing;

—Ellen Kane of Ellen Kane, Gifts will display an array of stationery and explain appropriate use;

—Brenda Lady of Merle Norman Cosmetics will suggest grooming tips;

—Mary Lee Bergeron of Seymour's Jewelry and Gifts will demonstrate placement of china, stemware and flatware;

—Yvonne Sallinger of Bridalair will discuss being a guest at weddings and other special occasions;

—Darlene Underwood, Hancock County Extension Home Economist, and Janet Polozola, Hancock Medical Center, will discuss communicating in friendships and dating.

—Pat Harvill of Riemann Funeral Home will offer suggestions on how to console a bereaved friend;

Ladies from the Retired Senior Volunteer Program will assist with refreshments and various other segments of the project.

Participants will receive Emily Post's Etiquette for Teens. The four-week course will culminate with a tea, in which each girl will extend a written invitation to an adult guest and be responsible for introducing her to others present.

Registrations will be on a first come basis, with the class limited to 25 participants. The fee is $15, payable at the first class. For registration information, phone the RSVP office at 467-9204.

Thank you

Participants in the Hancock County American Cancer Society's etiquette course will learn about various types of correspondence in one segment.

Mississippi School for the Deaf offers Family Learning Vacation

The Mississippi School for the Deaf will host a Family Learning Vacation June 21-24.

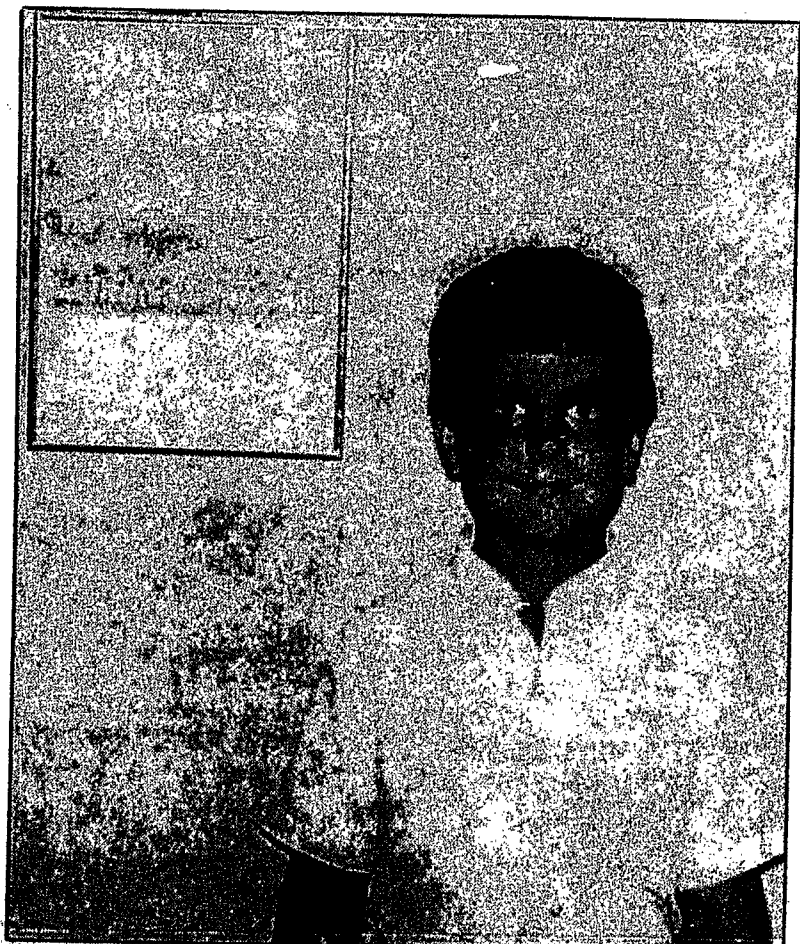

This program gives families with deaf and hard-of-hearing children a chance to learn about deafness, share experiences with other families and learn to communicate more fully.

Families will stay in comfortable, air-conditioned dormitories. Meals will be provided.

The FLV targets families with a deaf child up to 12 years old. There is a $25 non-refundable application fee per family. Applications are due May 31. For more information contact Leslie Janik at 987-5571 or 987-3934.

Children's Art Festival

Well, not really — Kris, who was the only youngster to enter the Beachfront Festival poster contest and whose entry has been printed as a limited edition Children's Art Festival poster, will be the artist-in-residence, but Michelangelo will be the Turtle-in-residence.

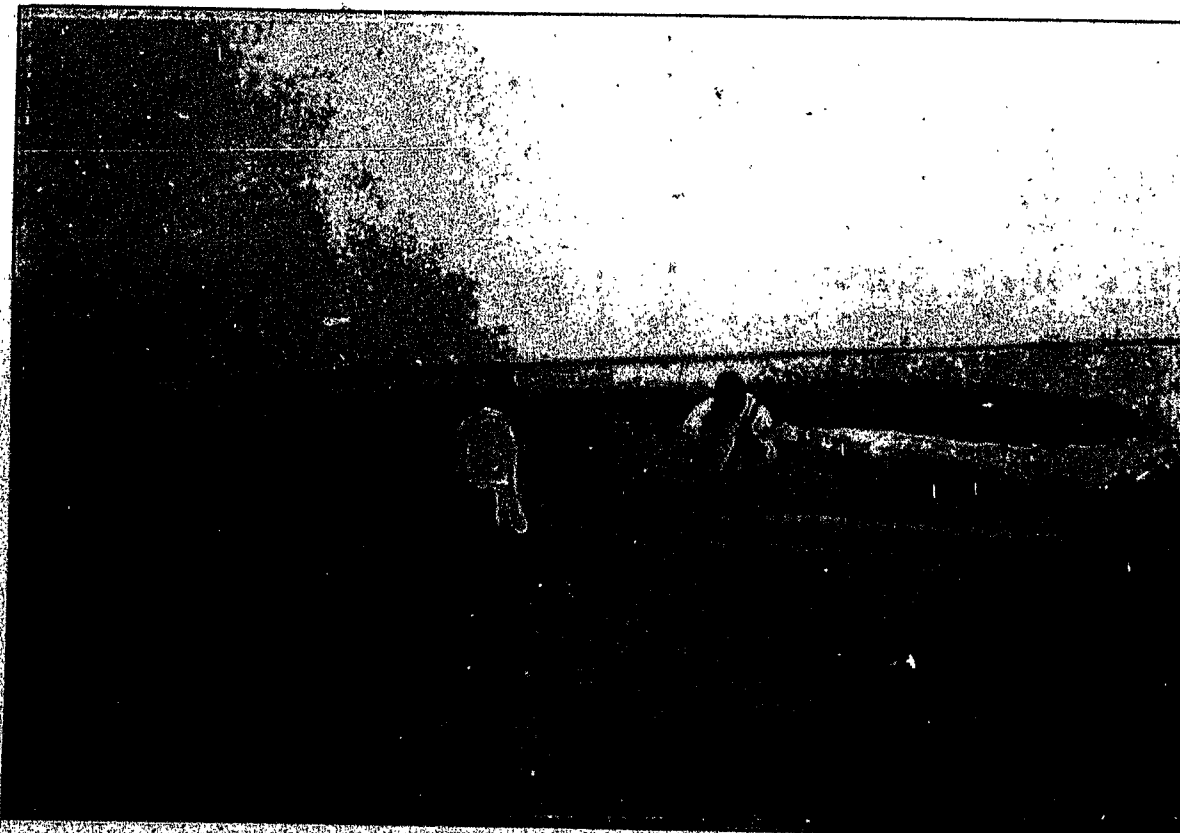

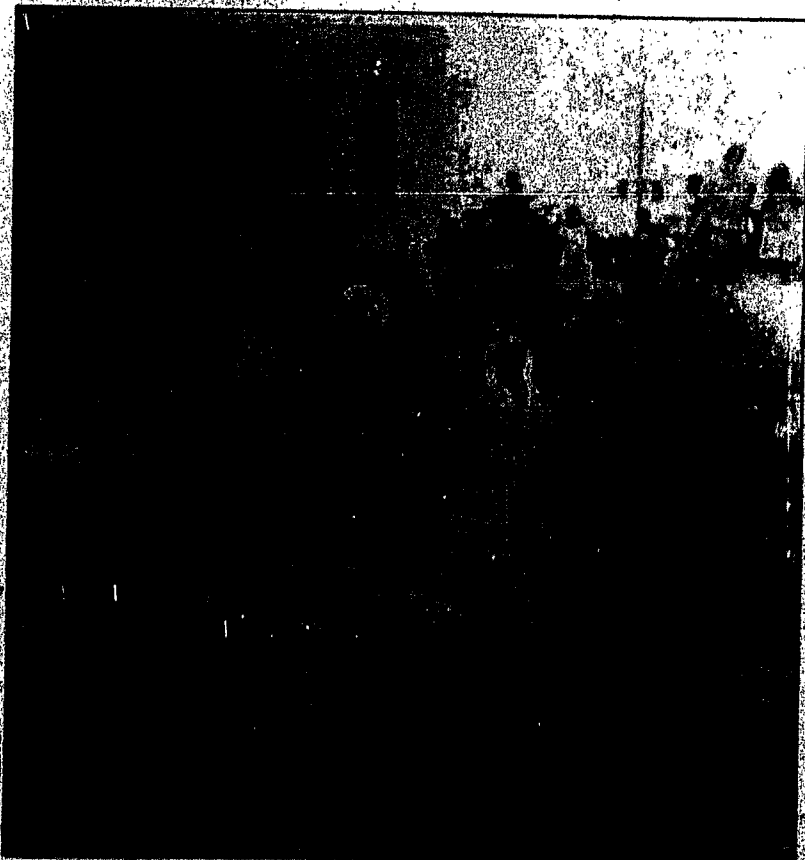

That's right — Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtle Michelangelo will help open the Children's Art Festival.

Michelangelo, usually on guard at Winn Dixie, will be on hand to help the children enjoy the many booths and activities planned. For a schedule of Children's Art Festival and Beachfront Festival activities, see page 7A.

Beachfront Festival 1989

Last year's festival was a great success, with many people enjoying the variety of activities, events and groups present. Some scenes from Beachfront Festival 1989: the St. Rose de Lima Choir, shown above, was a big hit among festival-goers. Sounds of a different sort could also be heard at the festival, as a local group of Civil War re-enactors fires a cannon, below right, while others in the group and several onlookers watch, below left.

Timber Ridge Social Club

The regular monthly meeting of the Timber Ridge Social Club was held Monday evening, May 21, at the home of Joan Anderson.

The group discussed at length the need to continue the Neighborhood Watch Program in the subdivision. Marilyn Mack is the committee chairperson and can be contacted for any information or help in the area.

Marian Bourdette brought up the need for a recycling program and will contact someone at City Hall as to how we can set up a recycling center.

Each member of the Timber Ridge Property Owners Association is reminded to attend the annual meeting to be held at the Pass Christian High School auditorium on Sunday, June 10 at 2 p.m.

The next regular monthly meeting will be held at the swimming pool on June 18 at 10 a.m. Joann Barber will be hostess with Marilyn Mack and Elaine Reese as co-hostesses.

MR. AND MRS. BUD BOUDREAUX

Boudreauxs mark golden anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. E. J. (Bud) Boudreaux celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary with a reception at the Diamondhead Community Center.

They have three sons and one daughter and 10 grandchildren. Mr. Boudreaux is retired from Kaiser Aluminum in Chalmette and Mrs. Boudreaux retired from the St. Bernard Parish School system.

The couple was married April 17, 1940 at St. Maurice Church in New Orleans and now reside in Pass Christian. Mrs. Boudreaux is the former Rosalie Kerber.

CLUBS, AUXILIARIES

Diamondhead Garden Club

The May 16 meeting of the Diamondhead Garden Club was held at the Community Center with president, Gerri Garberg, presiding.

Virginia Ludwig read the Collect prior to the Pledge being recited. Betty Cutler introduced ten guests.

Gerri Garberg announced the following awards which were presented to the Diamondhead Garden Club at the Garden Clubs of Mississippi Convention held in April:

—The State Award for first place in Year Book competition

—The Award Trophy for year book

—State Award for Residence and Community Center Flower Show Exhibits in 1989.

Nancy Shubac, announced that Margaret and Ernie Parsons, Mahalo Hui, received the Garden of the Month Award.

The Terrace Room of the country club rose garden received the Commercial Award. Linn Bankston then announced the Golf Course Award will be presented to Vince and Laura Almerico.

Virginia Valigorsky introduced ten new members, including Jane Carns, Rusty Cobb, Kay Gillum, Margaret Grace, Chris Jones, Betty Pennington, Ethel Philip, Mary Sindors, Betty Smart and Janet Snemyr. All were welcomed into the club.

Garbert announced that Mary Cassis was installed as second vice president of the Gulf Coast Council of Garden Clubs at the May 4 meeting. Cassis will be the Gulf Coast Pilgrimage chairman.

Rosemary Bacigalupi was installed as fourth vice president and will be chairman of Arbor Day observances at Beauvoir.

Hostesses for the May 16 meeting/luncheon included Boyon Leshin, Rose Almerico, Carol Bustetter and Nina Cotton.

This year, for the communitywide Fourth of July celebration, garden club members will man booths to sell cookies, pies, popcorn and ice cream. Virginia Valigorsky and Marge Bybee will serve as co-chairmen for the garden club.

Following a brief recess, Brierly Acker introduced the guest speaker, John Davis of the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service.

Davis travels the southern portion of the state assisting and working with many of the commercial locations.

His talk had to do with propagation of plants. Propagation may be accomplished by means of cuttings, layering or division of clump-forming plants. Cuttings should be disease-free before propagating.

A recently released Plant Hardiness Zone Map now has this area in a different zone from the previous 20-year-old map. Due to the 5 degrees cooler winter temperatures which we experience now, the Southern Mississippi Zone is 8A.

Davis presented slides and a brochure on the subject of propagation and answered questions from those present.

The meeting was adjourned followed by a salad and dessert luncheon. The next meeting will not be held until September. There will be a board meeting on June 20.

Blue Jeans Garden Club

Blue Jeans Garden Club members and their guests celebrated the club's 42nd birthday with a luncheon followed by the annual Hat Show competition at the Diamondhead Country Club Thursday, May 17.

The ten guests, who were introduced by Dot Feaheny, president, were enthusiastically welcomed by members. They included Murielle Jackson, Gloria Treadaway, Lee Ann Sauls, Lorraine Norton, Emilda Indovina, Marilyn Raby, Zeldia Reuter, Yvonne Kirm, Josie Manca and Bridget Manca.

An inspirational poem, "You're Never Alone," by Colette Fedor, was read by Mary Danna, luncheon chairman.

The hat show competition began after a delicious and leisurely luncheon. Each member modeled her own creation. There were so many outstanding entries that voting for just one hat in each category was very difficult. When the votes were counted, co-chairmen Betty Klein and Beulah Peterson announced the winners in the various categories.

Winners were Melba Felder, large hat; Mayola Rotherham and Gloria Norton, a tie, small hat; Phil Lagasse, anything goes hat; Joyce Hicks, funny hat; and Dot Feaheny, most original hat. In the sweepstakes there was a tie with Melba Felder and Joyce Hicks each winning another point.

The lovely table decorations, created by Alice Brechtel, chairman, and given as door prizes, were won by Gloria Norton, Ada Schafer, Joyce Hicks, Eunice Foret, Jennie Ortis and Margaret Heitzmann.

In her short closing address, president Dot Feaheny thanked everyone who attended with a special thanks to all chairmen who did such a beautiful job.

The members again voted to start a plant now, care for it all summer and bring it to the Sept. 20 meeting for a "swap" among members.

Retired Public Employees

A joint workshop meeting co-sponsored by the Public Employees Retirement System and the Mississippi Retired Public Employees Association will be held at Gulfport at the Westside Community Center on Hwy. 90 on Thursday, May 31, beginning at 10:30 a.m.

Representatives of the PERS and MRPEA will be present to update retirees on legislation passed during the 1990 regular legislative session, the insurance program, and other areas of interest to public employee retirees. The meetings will end by noon.

Among local participants is Dr. J. J. Hayden of Pass Christian.

Democratic Women

The Hancock County Chapter, Federation of Democratic Women, will meet Wednesday, May 30 at 6:30 p.m. in the Hancock County Courthouse, Board of Supervisors meeting room.

New officers will be elected. Speakers will include Charles Gottschalk, chairman of the Hancock County Democratic Executive Committee, and Sen. Victor Frankiewicz.

The public is invited to attend. For additional information, phone 467-2176.

WAVELAND CIVIC OFFICERS—Officers for the Waveland Civic Association were installed on May 10. Seated from left are, Kelvin Schultz, vice-president; Jay Lagasse, president; and John Mason, treasurer; standing, James Kelly Jr., secretary; and Elie (Buddy) Williams, sergeant-at-arms. Among the community projects of the Waveland Civic Association are the annual Labor Day Muscular Dystrophy Telethon and St. Patrick's Day parade.

THE SEA COAST ECHO—SUNDAY, MAY 27, 1990-3B

Multiple Sclerosis Society

The Gulf Coast Branch of Multiple Sclerosis of Mississippi will conduct its next meeting Saturday, May 26, at the Airport Holiday Inn on Hwy. 49 in Gulfport from 2-3:30 p.m.

For more information contact Dianne Butera, 388-7032; Jan. Cloud, 392-5496, or Annette Lawrence (Pascagoula) at 588-6303.

Medical Assistants

"Bruises, Burns, Fractures," were just a few of the methods of Child Abuse which were presented by retired Lt. Col. Daphne Richardson, RN, USAF at the May 17 meeting of Coast Counties Medical Assistants held at the Best Western Beachview Inn in Gulfport.

Col. Richardson, a nationally certified nurse practitioner gave a slide presentation and held a question and answer session. Also discussed was non-accidental trauma and failure to thrive.

Certain signs and symptoms were cited as "red flagged." Members were told how to distinguish between actual child abuse and other factors that were similar.

The next meeting of Medical Assistants will be on Thursday, June 21 at 6:30 p.m. Members will be notified of the location and speaker.

Other interested medical personnel should call Lynn Gutterman, CMA at 863-8061 or 832-8220.

All projects funded under the Mississippi Water Pollution Control Revolving Fund Act undergo a review to determine whether the proposed project will have a significant impact on the environment. In making this determination, it is assumed that all of the facilities and actions recommended in the facilities plan will be implemented.

The proposed project includes the construction of a wastewater treatment facility, pump stations, force main interceptors and diversion of the sewage from the existing package treatment plants to the new treatment facility in Diamondhead, Bay St. Louis, Mississippi. The Mississippi Bureau of Pollution Control has determined that the proposed project will not have a significant adverse impact on the environment and consequently is issuing this Finding Of No Significant Impact. However, this assurance can be revoked if significant adverse information becomes available. A copy of the Environmental Assessment is available upon request. If you have any comments regarding the proposed project, please send them to: Dr. Jon Huey, Bureau of Pollution Control, P.O. Box 10385, Jackson, MS 39289-0385, phone (601) 961-5171 no later than June 27, 1990.
